

Women of humane disposition and tender manners

LCDR Beth Brumfield

It's October 21 1957 and the cold war is just beginning to heat up. The Navy has a visible presence in the Mediterranean at a place called Naval Air Station, Rota, Spain. Hundreds of sailors and their families are here guarding the "gateway to the Mediterranean." A small dispensary meets their health care needs and staffing it are Navy nurses. The assignment of Navy nurses to Rota marks yet another milestone in the long and continuous history of the Navy Nurse Corps.

It all began in the year 1811. Dr. William Paul Crillion Barton, a Navy surgeon, is tasked by the Secretary of the Navy to present recommendations for "conducting hospitals and institutions for the sick." His recommendation - "Nurses." "Nurses of proportionate number...of humane disposition and tender manners; active and healthy...to attend with fidelity and care all the sick committed to their charge..."

Official sanction was a few years in the future but Civil War was raging now. In what has been called the "beginning of Navy nursing," four volunteer nurses served aboard the confiscated Confederate steamer RED ROVER from 1862 until 1865 during the Civil War. And in 1898 during the Spanish-American War, the U.S. Navy contracted for nurses to care for the wounded and ill. Neither enlistees nor enrollees, the nurses were nevertheless attached to the Navy.

Some 93 years after Dr. Barton's recommendation on May 13 1908, President William Howard Taft signed an act of congress establishing the Nurse Corps of the United States Navy.

WWI, "the war to end all wars" saw Navy Nurses serving all across Europe in both Navy and Army hospitals. Four Navy nurses were awarded the Navy Cross for conspicuous service and 36 lost their lives.

1918 was a big year for Navy nurses. They numbered 1,386, were designed a dress uniform with the Navy Nurse Corps collar insignia, metal initials of NNC USN for regular Navy or NNC USR for reserves, and received a pay increase to $60 a month.

In the afternoon of December 7, 1941, Guam was attacked and five Navy nurses were taken prisoner by the Japanese. They were released eight months later. The eleven Navy nurses captured on Manila in 1942 were not as fortunate. They spent a total of 37 months as Japanese prisoners of war. For her heroism on Corregidor and Bataan, LT Ann Agnes Bernatitus was awarded the Legion of Merit - the first person, male or female, to receive this award. Yet, despite the risks, the hardships and family separations, nurses responded to the call to duty and the Navy Nurse Corps numbered 11,021 members in 1945.

It was during the war years (1944) that the Navy nurses were finally commissioned as officers in the U.S. Navy. Prior to this, they were classified as neither enlisted nor officer, just military. Also commissioned in 1944 was the ship USS Higbee. The first combat ship named after a woman honoring Lenah S. Higbee, second superintendent of the Nurse Corps.

The Nurse Corps was established as a permanent staff corps of the U.S. Navy in April 1947 under the direction of Director, Nurse Corps with both active and reserve nurses.

These reserve Nurse Corps officers were involuntary recalled in 1950 to meet the demands of caring for Korean casualties. At the peak of the Korean conflict, 3,238 Navy nurses worked aboard three hospital ships in Korean waters, 26 naval hospitals, 67 station hospitals and dispensaries, 3 hospital corps schools, and 8 Military Sea Transport ships.

With peace came the recognition that the Navy needed to access nurses in-house and a Nursing Education Program for WAVES was instituted in 1955, followed by the Nurse Corps Candidate Program in 1957 and authorization of Duty Under Instruction (DUINS) in 1959. Other educational programs followed including Officer Indocination Courses (OIC), Navy Management Course, an anesthesia program, operating room nursing, and nurse practitioner programs.

Conflict again; this time in a small country in Southeast Asia. It was a wrenching war and four Navy nurses received the Purple Heart for injuries sustained in a terrorist attack in Saigon, South Vietnam. Other nurses died in this conflict while serving in Rach Gia and DaNang.

November 1964 added a new dimension to the Nurse Corps: men. Men were now approved for commission into the Nurse Corps and in 1965 five men reported to OIC as newly commissioned Nurse Corps officers.

As Navy nurses integrated into the nucleus of the regular Navy, their unique contributions were recognized and rewarded with pay increases, equal rank and promotion status and assignment in Navy leadership positions outside the nursing field.

In July 1972, it was a Navy nurse, Captain Alene Bertha Durek who was the first woman promoted to Flag Rank of Rear Admiral.

A remarkable progress in 93 years for "women of humane disposition and tender manners."

Military travel restricted to Bahrain

As of May 3, space-available travel to and through Bahrain is restricted to mission essential personnel and authorized dependents only. The restriction applies to military members, dependents, DoD civilian personnel, and retirees, and there are certain requirements that must be met by each in order to enter the country. Any unauthorized personnel arriving in Bahrain will be immediately sent out on the next AMC flight.

Thrift Savings Plan, save for future

Military members will soon have the opportunity to add to their retirement savings with the start of the Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) "open season" to begin this fall.

"The Navy decided to participate in the Thrift Savings Plan because it is the right thing to do for our military members," said Chief of Naval Personnel, Vice Adm. Norb Ryan.

Any member of the uniformed services serving on active duty and any member of the Ready Reserve in any pay status may participate in the Thrift Savings Plan, a government retirement and investment program meant to encourage voluntary personal savings. TSP is not a replacement for the 20-year retirement plan already in place, but a supplemental investment plan similar to "401 K" plans offered by civilian corporations.

Capt. David J. Smith relieved Capt. Ron Black of his duties as commander, U.S. Naval Hospital, in a change of command ceremony Friday, May 4. Under Black's guidance the Hospital received the Outstanding Navy Hospital Award for Customer Satisfaction for 1999, Gold Star Award in Health Promotions, the Commander of Naval Forces Europe Retention Award, and two totally "error-free" Federal Drug Administration blood bank inspections. He also provided leadership and support for the first Navy sponsored humanitarian MEDFLAG in Tanzania, along with medical outreach programs to Armenia, Bulgaria, and Estonia.

PUBLIC WORKS UPDATES

Electrical Feeder Replacement – The contractor has requested permission for May 9th to install a pre-manufactured "speed bump" on Flor Street to run cables for the Galley. This will slow traffic in this area for two - three weeks. Proper signals will be installed. The contractor has also requested several power outages for May 9, 10 and 11 of a maximum duration of two hours in buildings 567, 568, 569, 38, 570, 100, 49, 226, 28, 32, 34, 46, 45, 228 and 48. These outages are being coordinated with PW utilities.

Line Washing – The High Voltage Line Crew has begun washing the high voltage distribution system in the housing area. This is a reminder that we use "water only" to clean the lines and that the spray is not harmful to anything it may come in contact with.

National Police Director Juan Cotino explained the drugs were smuggled into Spain in a shipment of wood that arrived at Valencia from Colombia via Brazil.

Fishing dispute heats up

Guardia Civil vessels will escort fishing boats along the Gibraltar Straits after fishermen in Tarifa, Cádiz, claim a Moroccan army patrol boat has been intimidating them. Around 50 boats fishing only 3.5 miles off the coast of Tarifa returned to harbor on May 6 reporting the Moroccan vessel's action. The Spanish Agriculture and Fisheries Minister Miguel Aria Cañete said around 85 percent of fishing boats that formerly used Moroccan waters will be relocated to other fishing banks - forcing only 15 percent to scrap their boats with EU grants.

Spanish Eco-Tax might spread

Aragon could follow the steps of the Balearic Islands and charge an 'eco-tasa' (tourism tax) to skiers using the Pyrenees resorts. Application of the tax is being studied by the regional government.

Spaniards criticize Prince

Criticism towards the unofficial relationship between Prince Felipe and Norwegian model Eva Sannum increases. Historian Carlos Seco, member of the National Academy, has been the latest to add his negative opinion to that of many well-known writers and columnists. April showers bring May flowers

With all the rain last week, I couldn't help but think that April just didn't want to let go. After all we have all heard the saying, "April showers bring May flowers." I better see a lot of flowers really soon!

Often times we complain about those things like rain and cold since we may not find them pleasant at the time, but we sure do enjoy the benefits. Life is like that - it takes hard times to have the good, work to have accomplishment, exercise to have endurance. To have the harvest you have to go through spring planting and summer weeding. Then you can enjoy the harvest in the end.

If we try to get to the good stuff without going through the work - we many times miss the blessing along the way and may in fact miss what we hoped to get all along. I was sent this story that illustrates the connection between the struggle and the end result. It is the story of a butterfly:

A man found a cocoon of a butterfly. One day a small opening appeared. He sat and watched the butterfly for several hours as it struggled to force its body through that little hole. Then it seemed to stop making any progress. It appeared as if it had gotten as far as it could, and it could go no further. So the man decided to help the butterfly. He took a pair of scissors and snipped off the remaining bit of the cocoon. The butterfly then emerged easily. But it had a swollen body and small, shriveled wings.

The man continued to watch the butterfly because he expected that, at any moment, the wings would enlarge and expand to be able to support the body, which would contract in time. Neither happened. In fact, the butterfly spent the rest of its life crawling around with a swollen body and shriveled wings. It never was able to fly. What the man, in his kindness and haste, did not understand was that the restricting cocoon and the struggle required for the butterfly to get through the tiny opening was needed. It was God's way of forcing fluid from the body of the butterfly into its wings so that it would be ready for flight once it achieved its freedom from the cocoon.

by Chaplain Perry Haagen

Sometimes struggles are exactly what we need in our lives. If God allowed us to go through our lives without any obstacles, it would cripple us. We would not be as strong as what we could have been. So, when you are going through struggles, remember they come so you can be all that God wants you to be.

Feria in Puerto, Mother's Day

The lighting of the Feria in Puerto took place last night, but things really get going today. If you missed the one in Rota or enjoyed it so much that you want more, the feria in Puerto goes on through Sunday.

Once again this week, we have some ads for Mother's Day. If you still need some suggestions, hopefully you can find something that grabs your fancy in one of the ads. The NEX is advertising some specials on page 9 and the other ads are grouped together on page 15. Teresa of Teresa's Shop in Rota has made some cute little baskets with things for the kitchen and others with things for the bath. She also has some very nice hand painted silk scarves, summer bags, collection dolls etc.

At Giovi, also in Rota, you can find a good selection of amber jewelry and Mallorca pearls as well as tiled mirrors, Capodimonte porcelain dolls and much more. At Matías Lebrón Jewelers in El Paseo Mall, you know you can always find something very special: a watch, earrings, a ring, a bracelet or a brooch as well as the special "Mother's Day" medals. At Díal, the new shop that first advertised last week, you can find lots of original and unusual items. If you still have last week's paper, check out the other ads that ran last week as well.

The new Cafeteria-Bar Manila in Edificio La Costilla on Avenida Sevilla in Rota, now has cold tapas as well as pastries. They have things such as shrimp, langostinos, potato salad, octopus salad etc. so if you are not in the mood for one of their special coffees or teas with something sweet, you can get a snack!

PUBLISHER'S CORNER

As I briefly mentioned last week, the Chinese restaurant Chino Mandarin on Avenida San Fernando in Rota, has had a face-lift. The new owner, Nicholas, has put in wood paneling on the lower part of the walls throughout, painted the ceiling a light color, put in some new floors, new lamps etc. The end result looks really nice: bright and clean.

Trinity School has Spanish language classes starting evenings. You can start at any time there is a class on your level starting. Call 956-871926 or e-mail trinity@spa.es for more information.

From the Desk of the Security Officer

Lt. Dave Kush

As the summer approaches, unfortunately so does an increase in crime and criminal activity. Much of the increased crime can be attributed to the significant increased population throughout our surrounding community. However, we in the Security field see another major contributing factor involved. This factor is a lack of practicing smart, common sense crime prevention measures.

Very often we see three common denominators involved in crimes personal in nature. Those factors are:

- 1) Failure to practice the "buddy system."
- 2) A timeframe of 1 – 5 a.m.
- 3) Alcohol involvement.

We believe removing all these factors can nearly prevent all personal crime. However, just removing one section of the "pyramid" significantly reduces your chances of becoming a victim. Although we are very fortunate to live in a very safe environment, there remain dangers and criminals out there. Our statistics show that crime has continued to reduce over a three-year period and we are very encouraged that this trend will continue.

However, we also believe that the focused attention to Force Protection, the practice of personal crime prevention measures, and crime prevention education has been the key to this success. Be active in your community. Report suspicious activity/persons to Security or local police immediately. Always trust your "sixth-sense." If something doesn't "feel right," it probably isn't right.

When we review statistics of property crime, many cases reflect the same lack of crime prevention practices. Here are a couple of pointers to protect your property and make it much harder on the criminals:

Tips while traveling:

1. Blend in as much as possible. Looking like a "tourist" increases your chances of becoming a victim.
2. Know where you're going before you get there. Drive around and make observations about your destination before walking around.
3. Do not look at maps outside. Enter a community area (e.g., restaurant, building, etc.) and review maps...walk confidently to your destinations.
4. Observe and know your surroundings at all times. Look at the people around you and stay in well-populated areas. Back alleys, side streets and unpopulated areas are the criminal's territory.
5. Do not carry valuables and keep wallets/money in front pockets. It is recommended not to carry purses and/or backpacks. If purses/backpacks are carried, carry them over the shoulder and to the front. Should a thief attempt to "snatch" a purse/backpack, do not fight and let the person have the item. It's not worth your personal injury.
6. When driving, do not stop when being flagged down or when directed by a person in a privately owned vehicle. Only stop for police and emergency vehicles that are clearly marked.

Vehicle crime prevention tips:

1. Lock your doors and roll windows up tightly.
2. Do not leave property inside vehicles.
3. Lock items in trunks and "out of sight."
4. Park in well-lit, populated areas. Do not park on side streets.
5. Ensure you remove your pass from windshields when exiting the base.
6. Conduct random spot checks on your vehicle when parked for extended periods.
7. Bumper stickers depicting American sayings/displays are most strongly discouraged.

Tips for the home:

1. Lock your doors and windows (close persianas).
2. Leave outside lights on during hours of darkness.
3. Do not leave property unsecured (many thefts reported to Security occur when personnel leave items "in the backyard," "on the front porch," or "under the car port").
4. Advise the Security Crime Prevention Unit when vacationing or leaving home for extended periods of time (we can/will conduct security spot checks of your on-base home). In cases of off-base homes, request friends and/or neighbors conduct spot checks.
5. Install alarms (when possible).
6. Dogs significantly deter thieves.
7. Contact the Security Crime Prevention Unit to arrange a full and thorough Home Security Survey.

Whitewater Kayaking in the Sierra Nevada

Story PH1(AW) Ron Heppner, photos by Tristin and Angela Cavender

Having been labeled narrow-minded and lacking in cultural appreciation, I sought to broaden my horizons by taking a whitewater kayaking trip in the Sierra Nevada Mountains with MWR Outdoor Adventures.

The day before the trip, Diana from Outdoor Adventures called to inform me that plans had changed from staying in cabins to staying in tents. She offered a refund, but said that nobody else canceled. I told her no problem and was happy that my fellow adventurers weren't deterred by a little glitch like staying in tents.

The trip left the marina on a Saturday morning around

7 a.m., bound for the mountains. Just outside of Sevilla our two-van caravan met our outfitters on the side of the road and we followed them to the La Alpujarra region south of Granada. The mountain scenery was awesome and we went through several small towns, including Lanjaron, before arriving at our campsite in Orgiva.

Our first order of business was to set up camp, which is usually no problem for a seasoned outdoorsman like me. However, the wind was gusting pretty heavily and a collapsible tent pole on the first tent we tried setting up, collapsed. No problem, I've had CPR and first aid training and I splinted the broken pole, but it didn't work. It was a good thing Diana brought extra tents.

After setting up camp we had an excellent lunch at the campground bar that was included in the price of the trip.

While lunch was digesting, we drove to the point on the Rio Guadalfeo where our kayak adventure would begin. First, we were issued wet suits for the unlikely event that the kayak would capsize. We also received helmets and skirts. The skirt wraps around your waist and seals the seating compartment on the kayak to keep water from splashing in.

We then transported our kayaks to the river and received some basic whitewater training. At this point I had absolutely no apprehension at all. I didn't see what the big deal was, you sit in the thing and it takes you down the river. After instructions like: hold onto your paddle like this, and stay in the middle of the river we shoved off.

Sitting in a kayak is like sitting straight up, on the ground, with your legs straight out in front of you. Except you can't move your legs.

The river didn't seem to be moving very fast but maintaining your balance is really tricky. The first time I rolled over, I hardly noticed the shock of the frigid mountain water while I struggled to free myself. One of the instructions we received was to hold onto the paddle no matter what. Somehow you forget that kind of thing when you are upside down, sucking water, while your head is bouncing off rocks. After the outfitters retrieved my kayak and paddle, I started down the river again.

This scenario repeated itself several times, until I was upside down with a lung full of water and my helmet strap strangling me. I decided that I no longer was a kayaker, threw in the towel and walked (I like to walk see Coastline issue Feb. 15, 2001) about three kilometers back to our starting point, where I later got a ride back to camp. I was the only one out of our group of 14 to quit and everyone else said that they really enjoyed themselves. Back in camp, everyone got cleaned up and headed to the camp bar for drinks and tapas. We shared our personal accounts of the day on the river and talked about how bruised and sore we were.

The night was restful in a tent, breathing the fresh, crisp, mountain air.

After breakfast at the camp bar about half of the group went kayaking and the rest of us went for a drive in the mountains.

We met back at the camp bar for another exquisite lunch, broke camp, and headed home. Looking back, even though I found out that I'm not cut out for kayaking, I had a really good weekend in the mountains.

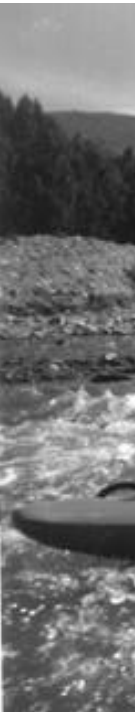

BONSAI!

Tent builders extraordinaire.

These falls at the end of the run were optional.

The outfitters provided everything that a beginning whitewater kayaker needed for an extreme day on the river.

One of our instructor's commands was to stay in the middle of the river, easier said than done.

Disposable waterproof cameras are handy.

The views in Alpujarra are fabulous.

Operating under a better-safe-than-sorry mind-set, the Amphibious Task Force surgeon said these measures are simple procedures that can circumvent the spread of a serious disease.

"It's obviously of great concern," Cmdr. Charles Baxter said of the disease. "It's had tremendous effects on England, and we certainly wouldn't want those effects to take place anywhere else. So, I wouldn't say that it's beyond anything we should do.

Boots are disinfected when leaving and returning to US ships while in port.

We're giving it the right amount of attention and the right amount of concern."

These newly implemented procedures are expected to continue in future ARG wash-downs.

consumers will have to pull a little more out of their pockets this summer when pulling up to the gas pump. REPSOL, the fuel supplier to NEX AUTOPOINT, changes the price of gasoline once a month.

"This increase is much more than expected," said Dave Shifrin, operations manager, Navy Exchange, Rota.

In response to the increase, NEX officials have designed to keep the increase from surprising the customer when pulling up to the pump. The price will be increased by five cents at the beginning of each month, but that's all, nothing else, said Shifrin. He also said the possibility of another increase is evident.

"Gas prices are expected to continue to rise as the summer approaches, and we are not sure when the prices will decrease," he said.

Prices on base, compared with Navy Exchanges in Norfolk, Pensacola, Jacksonville, and South Carolina, showed a three-cent difference.

Chocolat (PG-13: for a sensuality) Comedy; Juliette Binoche (120 min). When a single mother and her daughter arrive in a tranquil French town and open a very unusual chocolate shop across the square from the local church, the villagers abandon themselves to the temptation of the mouth-watering confections. A dramatic confrontation arises between those who prefer the old ways, and those who revel in their taste for pleasure.

Say It Isn't So (R: for strong sexual content, crude humor, and language) Comedy; Heather Graham & Chris Klein (96 min). Boy meets girl. Boy falls in love with girl. Boy loses girl when they discover they are brother and sister. But, when he finds out that he's the victim of the ultimate case of mistaken identity, he races cross-country to stop her from marrying another man.

Exit Wounds (R: for violence, language, and sexuality) Action; Steven Seagal & DMX (101 min). A tough Detroit detective assigned to the toughest precinct in the city teams up with a powerful crime figure who is tired of the conspiracy and corruption that dominate his territory, in order to uncover a group of corrupt policemen and bring them to justice.

The Heartbreakers (PG-13: for sex-related content) Comedy/Romance; Jennifer Love Hewitt (123 min). A mother and daughter form a con-man team based out of Palm Beach, Florida. Their scheme is a lucrative one, whereby the mother marries a rich man, the daughter seduces him, and the divorce settlement is the jackpot. It's a plan that works everytime except once.

Just Visiting (PG-13: for crude humor) Comedy; Cristina Applegate (88 min). Twelfth century French nobleman, Count Thibault and his servant, Andre, are transported to modern-day Chicago when a wizard's time-travel potion goes wrong. Trying to return to their own time, they foil diabolical plots and wreak havoc in both centuries, including meeting the Count's descendant and her scheming fiancée.

Crouching Tiger (PG-13: for martial arts violence) Romance; Michelle Yeoh (120 min). Crouching Tiger starts with the revenge plot common in the wuxia stories that director, Ang Lee, loved as a child, then adds a feminist twist. Li Mu Bai (Chow Yun Fat) is a legendary martial artist, who decided to pass on his sword, the Green Destiny, to a friend. The sword is stolen by a masked female, setting in motion events that test the bonds of family, love, duty, and sisterhood.

PRAYERS

Prayer for Healing: Dear God, Illness is not a thing, but a place. A place that is often full of pain, along with fear, uncertainty, and anger. A place where I must be alone, except for You. Bewith me. Lord, in this way I must go. Let me pray in confidence with Job "I know that You can do all things and that no purpose of Yours can be hindered". Give me a healthy body that I may use if in service of You. Give me a healthy mind and spirit that I may employ them in the works of Your kingdom. Until my healing comes, Lord, let me join my suffering to that of Your Son, Jesus, who willingly suffered for our sake. Let Your grace be sufficient for my need. Give me, and all who suffer strength that we may be filled with hope. Give us Your love so that our suffering may bring us closer to You, the origin and source of all Love. In Christ's name I pray. Amen

Jess López.

tomers logging onto the Internet each day.

"In the beginning, service may be very good," said Flores, "but when users start multiplying, quality of service goes down."

For better service, Internet users have two options, Flores said. They can go on-line during off-peak hours, from about midnight to noon, or they can opt for the ADSL service. ADSL acts as a direct, personal pipeline to the Web, which stays open all day, everyday, without tying up your telephone line.

"The best benefit is that you can use your telephone at the same time," Flores said.

For home use, up-front costs total about $275. Users must purchase a special modem, which is theirs to keep and use stateside, costing nearly $169, while the installation fee costs nearly $106. An additional flat-rate monthly fee of approximately $35 is charged to the user, but no additional phone charges will be incurred with the service. These prices are flexible and subject to special promotions, which potentially could mean lower prices. Prices are also subject to the exchange rate.

According to Juan Corona, a computer specialist, ADSL enables the user to:

- Enjoy a service 10 - 12 times faster than their current service.
- Experience almost real-time movement with Web cameras.
- Talk with another person who also uses an ADSL line "for free."
- Pick up uninterrupted local stateside television and radio programming, if broadcasted through the Web.

"If you have an idea, it can be translated," said Flores.

"Until now, there was a physical limit on-line, but that is not the problem now because ADSL works that out. We're pretty excited about it."

On-base customers interested in the service can call the base operator. Calling the operator only signifies interest in the service, it does not imply intent to buy the service, Flores said. Off-base customers can purchase the service now through Telefonica.

Local runners compete in Madrid

Ltjg. Sean G. Smith
Air Operations

Running through the Rain in Spain...NAVSTA's Dream Team Does It Again...And so can YOU!

Five Commands. Six Athletes. One Team. One Goal. To run the Madrid Marathon. On Sunday, April 29, the Base Naval Rota Runners went the distance one more time. Although only one of them had run the Madrid course, none of them were strangers to marathons, or Spanish races. Each has completed at least two Spanish marathons. Together, they have completed nearly 20 marathons, almost 500 marathon miles. Not counting marathons, the Base Naval Rota Runners have completed over 24 Spanish races, including numerous half-marathons and triathlons.

Due to operational commitments and deployment schedules, the Base Naval Rota Runners are only able to train together infrequently. Yet, time and time again through the last two years, they come together to share friendship, sportsmanship, and racing with each other and the Spanish.

What makes Spanish races so special? In Spain, the atmosphere is positively buoyant; runners freely share food, water, and encouragement. You may not have a country in common; you may or may not have a language in common, but you are all RACERS. In Spain, every runner, from the elite Kenyans, down to the slowest Ltjg. is a hero. The sidewalks and balconies are always filled with folks cheering, just for you... "Venga!" "Animo!" "Come On!" "Courage!" As you sprint to the finish line, laughing children line the streets with frantic, congratulatory high fives.

Every runner is a winner, with medals, diplomas and/or T-shirts awarded to every finisher at every race. Every race ends with Spanish food. Cold gazpacho or a plate of grilled sardines have never tasted sweeter than after running your heart out. Forget the food, the medals, and the personal cheerleaders. Running through Spain is an incredible way to discover unfamiliar towns and see new parts of cities you thought you knew. To name only a few, the Rota Runners have run past Bodegas in Jerez, down beaches in Rota and Chiclana, along the Guadalquivir and through Triana in Sevilla, around castles in Alcalá de Gaudaira, and most recently, in two hours of rain through Madrid's old quarter. There is absolutely nothing like it. If you'd like to experience Spain and the Spanish in a unique, new way, log onto the following URL:
